

BLACK MAGIC

Whatever your thoughts on the movie, Sex and the City 2, chances are you admired Carrie's five-carat black diamond.

The good news is Australia's leading diamond simulant retailer, Secrets, has harnessed the beauty of the black diamond in a stone that is flawless, can be created in any shape or size – and doesn't require Big's bank account to afford.

Secrets director Jane Meredith says black diamonds are prone to flaws and weakness, and high quality black diamonds are extremely rare, so many women opt for black diamond simulants when looking for a large, high-impact stone that will last forever. Best of all, they are set in white or yellow gold and priced from $470.
